SUPPLIED TRAFFIC DATA AND SCENARIOS

11.4 Appendix 11.4 Supplied traffic data and scenarios

Traffic data has been provided by the project transport consultants for the following six scenarios:

- Existing Baseline (2019)
- 1 - Future baseline (Do Nothing) with Sandy Lane open (2033)
- 2 - Future baseline (Do Nothing) with Sandy Lane closed (2033)
- 3 – Future baseline with development (Operation Do Something). Background mode shift included (2033)
- 4 - Future baseline with development and cumulative PR sites¹ (Operation Do Something). Background mode shift included (2033)
- 5 – Future baseline with development construction traffic (Construction Do Something) (2033)

Traffic data has been produced through transport modelling undertaken using the VISSIM model. This is a micro-simulation model, which allows traffic to re-route based on traffic conditions.

The transport strategy for the PR sites will mitigate the in-combination effects of traffic generated by the PR sites by improving connectivity via public and sustainable transport modes. All the PR sites need to come forward for the complete PR sites transport strategy to be delivered. Therefore, in the future operational “Do Something” scenarios (scenarios 3 and 4), assumptions have been made with regards to mode shift of background traffic. This background shift is a result of improvements to sustainable travel infrastructure in the north of Oxford area and along the corridors connecting to the city centre.

Scenario 2 is considered the future baseline. The closure of Sandy Lane is planned in the future with or without the Proposed Development. The closure will lead to a redistribution of traffic across the network. Therefore, considering this scenario as the future baseline is a worst-case assumption.

The impact of the Proposed Development has been determined by comparing scenario 2 and scenario 3. This has been used when determining the operational impact of the Proposed Development on human and ecological receptors. The impact of the Proposed Development accounts for traffic generated by the Proposed Development and a background mode shift. As the infrastructure to instigate this mode shift relies on the Proposed Development, the mode shift is considered an inherent aspect of the Proposed Development.

Oxford Meadows Special Area of Conservation is a European designated ecological site. Therefore, in line with IAQM ecological guidance, in-combination effects have been considered. In-combination effects have been determined by comparing scenario 4 and scenario 2.

The impact of construction vehicle traffic has been determined by comparing scenario 2 and scenario 5. Census employee travel to work distribution has been used to assign construction worker traffic to the network.

All future scenarios include committed developments.

The approach to transport modelling has been agreed by the transport consultants with OCC. Further details on the transport data scenarios, methodology, assumptions and committed and cumulative developments can be found in the Transport Assessment in chapter 9 of the ES.

The details of each scenario are presented in Table 1. The road link ID locations are presented in Figure 1 and data used for the assessment is presented in Table 2.
